President To Make "Total Defense" Speech On Radio Monday Night

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—President Roosevelt today condemned in the strongest possible language current Nazi tactics of "slaughtering" 50 or 100 innocent hostages in reprisal for attacks upon individual Germans in occupied countries.

"Those who would 'collaborate' with Hitler or try to appease him cannot ignore this ghastly warning," the president declared in a formal White House statement.

The chief executive declared that these "frightful" acts of "brutality" were the acts of desperate men who knew they were fighting a losing battle and he warned that seeds of hatred were being sown which one day would bring fearful retribution.

Text of the first presidential indictment follows:

"The practice of executing scores of innocent hostages in reprisal for isolated attacks on Germans in countries temporarily under the Nazi heel revolts a world already injured to suffering and brutality.

"Civilized peoples long ago adopted the basic principle that no man should be punished for the deed of another. Unable to apprehend the persons involved in these attacks the Nazis characteristically slaughter 50 or 100 innocent persons.

Demand Aid For Small Business

Charge "Defense Program Has Gotten Into Hands Of Big Fellows"

SMALL BUSINESS IS FACING CRISIS

By GRIFFING BANCROFT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Amid charges that "the defense program has gotten into the hands of the big fellows," bi-partisan demands for aid to small business developed on two fronts in Congress today.

1. Sen. Murray (D) Mont., chairman of a special committee to investigate the problems of small businessmen, announced that "thorough" hearings would start next week, and charged that "we are running the risk of ruining our internal economy."

2. Rep. Halleck (R) Ind., chairman of a special Republican committee set up last Aug. 11 to aid the little fellow, demanded that defense work be spread so that more contractors could participate in it, and that a better system of allocating needed materials be evolved.

"The matter is primarily an administrative one and it is up to the administration to do something about it," said Halleck, whose group has held a series of meetings throughout the country.

Problem Two-Fold

Eight members of the crew were killed and three injured, it was stated.

Drydocks And Pier Damaged In Brooklyn Fire

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A three alarm fire of undetermined origin which broke out in the yards of the Robins Drydock and Repair Company at the foot of Dwight street, Erie Basin, Brooklyn, early today was brought under control after damaging a pier, two floating drydocks, and badly searing two ships.

Early information on the fire was conflicting due to the fact that all reporters were kept at a distance from the yards by New York City and company police. The Robins firm has been engaged in defense work.

Unofficial World's Record For Parachute Leap Set By American

MILITARY EXPERTS STUDYING FEAT

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Arthur H. Starnes' "free fall" parachute jump from a height of more than 5½ miles today was studied by scientists and military experts for data which may improve the technique of parachute troops.

Setting an unofficial world's record, the 43-year-old Starnes leaped from a plane at 31,400 feet and opened the first of two parachutes strapped to him at 2,100 feet. He landed safely after opening the second parachute at 1,500 feet.

"Falls Free" 29,300 Feet
The veteran "chutist" thus "fell free" for 29,300 feet, approximately 5½ miles. This was the longest delayed jump ever recorded by the National Aeronautics association, although there are no official records for such jumps.

Most significant from the military point of view was the speed with which Starnes fell and the fact that he retained consciousness "except perhaps for a second or two"—throughout the hazardous fall.

Says Captive Mine Strike Will Develop

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25.—A strike of all "captive mines" in the United States which do not already have closed shop agreements with the C. I. O.-United Mine Workers of America was called for midnight tonight.

P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, declared: "We have orders from Washington to close at midnight tonight all captive mines without a union shop agreement."

He said the strike call came automatically following a three-day "notice" to the National Defense Mediation Board at Washington. Earlier, the C. I. O. officials had indicated that they would call the strike if the board's decision which had been promised "by Saturday" was not "satisfactory."

Japanese Paper Issues Warning

Tells U. S. To Make Concessions To Keep Japan Out Of War

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Oct. 25.—Japan's foreign office, through its press organ the Japan Times and Advertiser, tonight warned the United States to make concessions to keep Japan out of the war.

Nippon, the paper admonished "has enormous naval and military power, which can close the Pacific and Indian oceans to allied trade."

This direct warning was one of many press outbursts over the statement of Frank Knox, American secretary of the navy, that a clash between the United States and Japan is "inevitable" if Japan pursues a course of expansion.

"Knox's arrogant statement, in view of the present Japanese-American relations, must be described as irresponsible," said Yomiuri Shimbun.

Domel, the official Japanese news agency, took sharp issue with what it termed Knox's "bellicose" statement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The senate foreign relations committee today voted to broaden the house-approved ship arming bill by adding repeal of the neutrality act ban against American vessels carrying aid direct to British ports. The vote was 12 to 11.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The senate foreign relations committee prepared to report out the armed ship bill today, with administrative leaders claiming a vote of at least 14 to 9 assured. The fate of proposals to repeal the combat zone provisions of the neutrality act however was clouded in doubt.

The committee, which ended four days of hearings on the armed ship bill behind closed doors last night, was summoned into session at 10:30 a. m. today by Sen. Connally (D) Texas, chairman, to act on the house-approved measure.

Rebuilding Europe After War Will Be Job Of United States

Such Is Belief Of Louis Fischer, Just Returned From Europe

Makes Address At Closing Session Of Teachers Conference Here

"The United States will have to rebuild Europe after the present war."

This is the idea of Louis Fischer, foreign correspondent who addressed the convention of the mid-west section of the Pennsylvania State Education association Friday night in the Cathedral. His observation comes from a first hand view of Europe since the war started and a background of 20 years newspaper service in Europe, of which 14 were spent in Russia.

Unprecedented Prosperity
"The necessity for materials to replace the cities and towns of Europe will produce a wave of unprecedented prosperity in the United States," Fischer said. "The present plant expansion which is going on and the further plant expansion which is necessary to the conduct of the war will all be used in rebuilding Europe."

"Who will pay for the reconstruction," he was asked.

"Probably we will," he replied, "but its either that or face an economic depression here in the United States."

Fischer's picture of Europe and the rest of the world was a drab one. He returned to the United States 10 days ago via Clipper after being in England for some months. Bombed homes, maimed people, burning cities, horror and hate and desolation, wanton raids and mag-

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—German troops have marched into Kharkov, industrial and military stronghold of the Ukraine, the high command announced today, and are pushing the siege against Moscow with ever increasing intensity on the ground and in the air.

Kharkov, the "Pittsburgh" of the Ukraine and cradle of most of the Russian war and heavy industries, is 250 miles east of Kiev, it was occupied yesterday.

Taken By Rear Guard
This important city was taken by Nazi rear guard troops who stayed behind while the main German southern drive pushed deep into the Donetz basin.

Many heavy industries have fallen into German hands, it was said, thus contributing "tremendously" to the production potentialities of the Nazi war and economic setup, while ripping vital part from Stalin's tottering war machine.

The defenses of Moscow, meanwhile are being ceaselessly pounded by land and air bombardments, while panzer units keep unbroken the pressure on defending Red troops.

Important Capture
German soldiers have also taken Belgorod, 45 miles east of Kharkov, it was announced, and this indicated that the whole Kharkov front is rapidly rolling eastward, soon to join with German armies in the Donetz basin and establish a uniform southern front.

PA NEWS OBSERVES

Excellent displays marking Navy Day, Monday, October 27, have been arranged in Haney's and Murphy's windows by the local naval recruiting officers.

Geraniums are still blooming nicely on a lawn in the 1600 block of East Washington street.

With the removal of the restrictions on night closing of gas stations, there was no uniformity in the situation that prevailed last night, in this area. Pa. News is informed some stations were open last night, and some were closed.

With restrictions lifted in the gasoline service field, indications are that a lot of better touring will develop over the week end. The hills and valleys of Pennsylvania are at their best fall colorings at present and will attract a lot of sightseers over the week end, it is certain.

One week from today will mark the inauguration of the small game hunting season in Pennsylvania. With the opening of the season coming on Saturday there will probably be a larger number of hunters in the woods than during previous season openings. Game is reported to be quite plentiful.

Unofficial but well informed quarters said Domei "assert such inconceivable utterances by a responsible Washington leader do not smooth the course of the Japanese-American negotiations."

TELLS OF DROP OVER 5 MILES

until he opened the first parachute, 116 seconds elapsed. Starnes required another two minutes to reach the ground—three minutes, 56 seconds for the entire jump. His greatest rate of fall was 190 miles an hour.

Military authorities pointed out that data obtained from the jump may be used to increase the speed with which parachute troops descend, thus providing less of a target for the enemy.

Wore Especial Suit
Starnes, whose home is Calumet City, wore an electrically heated overall suit, with current supplied from a battery in his hip pocket, and carried a tube of oxygen, a cardiograph to record his heart beats, a pneumograph to record his breathing, and an automatic color movie camera to photograph his fall.

The data from these instruments was studied today by Drs. Anton J. Carlson, Andrew C. Ivy and Louis B. Krasnow, physiologists from Chicago and Northwestern universities. Dr. Ivy said Starnes' average speed of fall was 170 miles an hour.

"When we got up to 30,000 feet it was cold," I can tell you," Starnes related. "The thermometer was showing 54 degrees below zero when I decided to jump."

"On the way down my goggles frosted over, but I decided to risk blindness and lift one side of them."

REBUILDING EUROPE AFTER WAR WILL BE JOB OF UNITED STATES

ificent courage, all of them were a part of his address and at the conclusion his auditors were convinced that his idea was that the United States should get into this war promptly in order to save herself along with the other democracies.

"Can't Win Alone"

"England can't win this war alone," said Fischer. "Germany probably can't win the war. The English are resolved never to negotiate a compromised peace with Hitler. The implications insofar as the United States are concerned, are clear."

"What about Russia," he was asked.

"I spent 14 years in Russia," said he. "My book 'Men and Politics' deals with the background of the Russian situation. If Germany makes much more advance into the Ukraine than will capture the supply and arms centers of the Russians and the furnishing of Russian arms and equipment will be a matter for the United States and England next year."

Aid To Cities

Returning to the English front, Fischer said, "I was in the city of York, Yorkshire, recently visiting the Lord Mayor when a consignment of bundles from the town of York, Me., and York Village, Me., arrived. It was a sentimental gesture from one York to another but I wish you could have seen the joy on the faces of the people when they unwrapped the supplies."

"May I suggest this. Here you are in the City of New Castle, named as I understand it after the historic city of New Castle-on-Tyne, England. I was in New Castle-on-Tyne recently and the city has been bombed badly within the last fortnight. The people of New Castle-on-Tyne can use anything you can send them. It would be a gracious thing to do for New Castle, Pa., to send over bundles consigned to her English civic relation."

While Fischer painted a dark, drab picture of Europe at the present time and seemed to believe the war would be a long one, he seemed to believe that at the end of the misery and hunger and suffering the democracies would win. If the United States gets into the fray.

Convention Closed

The evening session closed the tenth annual convention of the mid-west section P. S. E. A. Opening shortly after 7 o'clock, the massed string orchestra of the district presented a number of selections. A different director conducted the numbers and the directors invited to participate were Paul Winter of Ellwood City, Carlton Chaffee, Midland; A. B. Davenport, Aliquippa; Donald Graff, Clarion; Russell M. Wood, Monaca. A. E. McCormick, Ambridge.

The new officers were presented to the convention and the meeting adjourned to convene next October.

The new officers who will serve the coming year are as follows: President, Mrs. Maude Blair Roberts, Sharon; first vice president, Harrison A. Hartman, Slip; second vice president, A. A. Murphy, Clarion; secretary, Miss Mary Vandivort, New Castle; treasurer, Dr. Howard Headland, Slippery Rock; members of executive board, J. E. Bell, Ellwood City, and Dr. M. M. Pearce, Geneva college.

COMBAT ZONE REPEAL PLAN RESULT IN DOUBT

the neutrality act, and another by three Democrats to broaden the armed ship bill by repealing combat zone provisions, were pending.

Silent On Attitude

Although President Roosevelt has urged congress both to revise the neutrality act to permit arming of American merchant ships and to allow them to carry arms to belligerent ports, senate leaders declined to say in advance what their attitude would be on broadening the bill.

Sens. Pepper (D) Fla.; Lee (D) Okla. and Green (D) R. I., who introduced a resolution to repeal provisions under which President Roosevelt established combat zones which he forbade American ships to enter, were expected to seek a committee vote on their proposal.

With Sen. White (R) Me. saying that he would not offer a motion for outright repeal, it appeared unlikely that this issue would be voted upon.

While foes of repeal of the combat zone provisions warned that broadening of the bill would force long debate, Republican leaders were said to have decided that no filibuster would be permitted.

"They have the votes to pass the armed ship bill, and I think action can be concluded in the senate next week," said Sen. Nye (R) N. D. "But broadening of the bill would cause many members to believe it is their last chance to protest against war, and it is conceivable that 96 members might want to speak."

Lysle Wimer Is Now Recovering

Former New Castle Man Sustained Serious Burns In Washington Mishap

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—Lysle Wimer, formerly of New Castle and now an assistant painter foreman in the government service, is recovering in Mt. Alto Veterans hospital here from burns suffered in his home several days ago.

Mr. Wimer had spread paint remover on the basement floor and apparently the vapor was exploded by the pilot light of the hot water heater. Mr. Wimer sought to jump free of flames but fell, and the blazing liquid splashed up on his hands, arms, face and ankles. He subsequently rushed to the first floor and under a shower bath to extinguish his burning clothing and hair.

Hurried to Georgetown University hospital for emergency treatment, Wimer was later removed to the veterans hospital. His condition for a time was serious but physicians are now confident of his recovery and hopeful the use of his hands will not be impaired. It is expected he will be confined to the hospital a month or six weeks.

The injured man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wimer, 1025 East Washington street, New Castle, have come to Washington to be with their son.

PRESIDENT SEEKS TO PREVENT STRIKE IN 'CAPTIVE MINES'

a truce under which the mines have been operating the past 36 days be indefinitely continued.

Arbitration Plans

Meanwhile it proposed two alternative plans for arbitration. The board agreed to pass on the union shop issue if the miners and coal operators promised in advance to accept its decision. As an alternate plan, the board recommended that the policy of the old war labor board in 1917 be followed. Under it, a joint board of miners and operators would be set up. If deadlock, the board would select an arbitrator and agree to abide by his decision.

The recommendations were made after Board Chairman William H. Davis and O. P. M. Labor Chief Sidney Hillman conferred with Mr. Roosevelt at the White House over all strikes impending national defense. Davis said the board's recommendations had full approval of the President. Mr. Roosevelt, he added, communicated directly with Lewis and Myron Taylor of the U. S. Steel Corporation requesting them "to arrange immediately for a continuation of production in the mines."

Ultimatum Given

The request was tantamount to an ultimatum of the 33,000 miners that would be involved in a strike, 30,000 work in pits owned by U. S. Steel subsidiaries.

President Roosevelt also asked Lewis and Taylor to "assume the leading positions" in further arbitration as recommended by the board. Davis said that the dispute not only affected 43,000 miners in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky but covered 10,000 workers in the Alabama fields.

Asked what he would do if Lewis or the coal operators turned down the recommendations, Davis replied that "we will cross that bridge when we come to it."

Almost simultaneously, however, National Selective Service headquarters reported that in some local instances draft boards have been authorized to reclassify strikers under the government's so-called "work or fight" policy when workers have refused to accept mediation board recommendations. No estimate could be gained of the number of miners that might be affected by a "work or fight" edict.

A strike in the captive coal mines was called by the C. I. O. Sept. 14, but the men returned to work five days later under a truce arranged by the mediation board. Since then, the board held eight days of hearings in the case. It reported officially that it became clear at the outset "that there could be no meeting of minds in the conferences... because of the possible repercussions of any agreement here made on the steel and shipbuilding industries."

The C. I. O. is demanding union shops in big steel and shipbuilding yards, and was expected to use a union shop in captive mines—if granted—as a wedge in the other fields, particularly in steel.

and that the work is spread out. Then—with all due regard to the needs of defense—they must see that thousands of little fellows receive enough raw material to keep them in business."

Murray said the problem of the small business man is "the most serious that faces the nation," and promises that his group would make an exhaustive inquiry into it.

"The trouble is that the defense program has gotten into the hands of the big fellows," he said. "It seems to me that it would be better even to go a little more slowly in our defense program than to run the risk of ruining our internal economy—and that is what we are doing."

"Certainly the work can be spread out more, and certainly a better system of allocating materials can be worked out. And that is what should be done."

Judging by the casualty reports, Nazi troops are bravely pushing eastward behind a screen of Rumans.

BATTLE ROARS ALONG FRONT NEAR MOSCOW

by the Moscow radio indicated the fighting outside Moscow was still roaring in approximately the same positions as yesterday—the areas around Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavetz.

In the south, where the Germans still are pressing a heavy offensive against Rostov, battles roared in the regions of Nazi-held Taganrog on the northern shore of the sea of Azov and at Makeevka, about 100 miles northwest of Rostov.

Many Battlefronts

The war communiqué said: "During last night our troops were engaged in fighting the enemy in the directions of Taganrog and Makeevka in the Donetz basin and in the regions of Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavetz."

Previous reports indicated the battle for possession of Moscow was continuing in the north. The Russians admitted new Nazi advances on the southwestern sector of the front defending the capital.

The Russian (Tass) news agency reported: "The Germans are flinging fresh reserves into the battle for Moscow and are making feverish efforts on the three main roads leading to the capital."

"Regardless of the cost, they are delivering repeated heavy punches on every sector of the central front and attempting to drive wedges into the advanced Soviet lines."

Red Army Resisting

"The Red army is resisting heroically on every inch of ground," Tass reported particularly fierce German onslaughts in the Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavetz sectors outside Moscow, adding:

"The Germans hurled a tremendous number of tanks into a sanguinary engagement and the main road was blasted for many hours. During that time the shells of Soviet guns literally set fire to every yard of ground on which the Germans were moving."

"Following the most intense fighting, the enemy managed to lodge a battalion supported by tanks, in our lines. But the Soviet forces daringly counter-attacked and repulsed the Germans, who left many dead behind."

According to a Moscow radio broadcast, the Communist newspaper Pravda reported that south of Maloyaroslavetz the Germans pushed back defending Russian units at two points.

"The Russians are now 'improving their positions' in this area, Pravda said.

On another sector of the central front, said Pravda, the Russians drove German forces out of the town of "N" and later were mopping up the town.

Report Air Action

Yesterday, the Russian radio said, the Soviet air force destroyed 70 tanks and armored cars, 200 trucks, two German infantry battalions and two anti-aircraft batteries.

The broadcast said the Germans are now bringing up reserves in preparation for a "decisive battle."

Earlier, with Premier Joseph Stalin reported in direct personal charge of the defense of Moscow, the Soviet radio said the Germans had been driven from three villages northwest of the capital.

"EDITOR'S NOTE: Berlin claimed the German forces were rapidly gaining ground on the northern, central and southern sectors of the Russian front, taking more than 10,000 prisoners and destroying 46 Soviet planes, 32 tanks and scores of field guns."

"Heavily fortified and stoutly defended Soviet positions on the Moscow front were declared to have been pierced despite adverse weather conditions."

(Reports to Berlin from the front said three highway bridges and one railway bridge had been captured on the southern front when the Germans advanced too rapidly to permit the Russians to blow up the structures.)

During the night, the Moscow radio said, a few German raiders penetrated Moscow's aerial defenses and bombed the city, damaging several houses and causing a few casualties. The account said no military or industrial objectives were hit.

What a world! If you expose a tax-dodger, you are a nasty informer; if you don't, you pay his tax.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The war department today assigned Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton to command the American air forces in the Far East with headquarters at Manila in the Philippines.

GHASTLY WARNING GIVEN TO WORLD SAYS PRESIDENT

cannot ignore this ghastly warning. "The Nazis might have learned from the last war the impossibility of breaking man's spirit by terrorism. Instead they develop their 'Lebensraum' and 'New Order' by depths of frightfulness which even they have never approached before."

"These are the acts of desperate men who know in their hearts that they cannot win. Frightfulness can never bring peace to Europe. It only sows the seeds of hatred and will one day bring fearful retribution."

Speech Monday

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt ordered his secretariat to make no engagement for him during the day and retired to his oval room study to begin work on the "total defense" speech he will deliver over the radio Monday at 10 p. m. EST, as a climax of this year's celebration of Navy Day.

The chief executive obviously planned to make it a major address which will further chart the course of the United States in the growing international crisis. He planned to take from 15 to 20 minutes of radio time and his words will be broadcast and re-broadcast in all languages to all parts of the world.

This year in proclaiming Oct. 27 as Navy Day, Mr. Roosevelt expanded the occasion to "Naval and total defense day," explaining that in these times the Navy was but a part of the nation's defenses.

SEARCH BEGINS FOR FIVE ARMY PLANES

emergency landings at Yerrington, Nev., 60 miles southeast of Reno, and were to continue northward today.

The multiple crashes occurred during adverse flying conditions. A murky fog hanging low over interior California brought the ceiling to zero. It was also held responsible for scattering the flight of pursuit ships which had taken off from March Field, near Riverside for Sacramento with three hours fuel supply.

Killed In Crash

Killed near Fairfield in the crash of the bomber which had taken off from Hamilton Field for its home base at Fort Douglas, near Salt Lake City, were:

Capt. Franklin S. Nelson, 34, former airline pilot of Salt Lake City. Second Lieut. E. F. Sell, 24, co-pilot of Lander, Wyo.

Technical Sgt. Andrew Zeik, 33, Salt Lake City.

Technical Sgt. Robert M. Kinney, 32, Salt Lake City.

Private First Class John W. Phillips, 23, of Salt Lake City.

Missing from the pursuit squad somewhere over the Tehachapi mountains was Lieut. J. H. Pease. Highland United Presbyterian church.

His leap was witnessed by another pilot of the flight, Lieut. E. F. Carey of Hampton, Va.

Reporting at McClelland Field with orders to continue to Washington and Oregon were Lieutenants Carey, Frank Mears, Albert Aiken, Dilby and Clark.

Accounted for in the forced landing at Yerrington were Maj. C. E. Hughes, flight leader; Capt. Peter McGoldrich, Lieutenants Truax, Thomas, Radovich, Speckman, Fair-lamb and Matthews. Army authorities said another ship had made a successful landing at Tulare. It was piloted by Lieutenant Scott.

McClelland Field authorities identified the five missing pilots as Lieuts. J. H. Pease, W. L. Birell, J. C. West, L. C. Lyon and Long. Addresses and the first name of Long were not immediately available.

In the belief that the missing ships were down in the vicinity of Bakersfield, planes will take off from the Army's Lemoore field at that city to make the first search today.

TAKE HEED
We are in receipt of advice that a racket has been worked on F. H. A. improvements jobs in Harrisburg, Pa.

An out-of-town contractor solicits the job, has the owner sign certain papers which are then sold to a New Jersey Bank. Even though some of the jobs are not even started, while some of them are started but never completed, the Bank attempts to collect from the victim.

We do not know of a similar case in this vicinity, but we wish to suggest to the public that they make it a point to know the people with whom they are dealing and that before signing a questionable contract, consult a reputable attorney.

W. S. C. S. PLANS SPAGHETTI DINNER
Further plans for their annual spaghetti supper to be held this coming Thursday evening in the Italian Methodist church social room were made when members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the church chapel Friday evening.

Last evening's meeting opened with devotion by Mrs. Louis Fusco and Mrs. R. Caldaro. A special program was presented by Mrs. F. P. Sulmonetti in observance of the 100th anniversary of the society's election. It was decided to have election of officers at the next meeting to be held November 14 in the church.

This fellowship supper is under the direct auspices of the official board and every department of the church will co-operate, including the division of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Young Women's Society. They will have the able assistance this year of Mrs. Jacob F. Rentz who will head a delegation of ladies from Epworth Methodist church, and the Rev. FOR THE GREATEST AIR FORCE

THE nation will approve the War Department's decision to increase the Army Air Force to 400,000 men by next June. According to the announcement by Secretary of War Stimson this means virtually tripling the present force, aggregating 30,000 fliers and 100,000 mechanics and ground specialists.

The increase, therefore, represents a goal of more than 100,000 flying personnel and it is indicated that once it is reached efforts will be made to bring the Army Air Force up to half a million men.

No wiser policy could be followed by this country in its defense preparations. The importance of air power can no longer be discounted. Every turn, every phase of the warfare in Europe has demonstrated that mighty fleets of fighting planes and bombers, manned by experts, are absolutely essential.

Expansion of the air arm of our defense to such huge proportions as now contemplated requires many months of training and preparation. The training period for pilots, bombardiers and navigators has now been cut to 7½ months, but it must be remembered that even with the numerous air fields available the training must be staggered through many groups before the desired total of capable airmen can be attained.

Similarly, for the much larger force of non-flying officers and enlisted men—armament, photography, communication, meteorology, engineering, and other specialists; armorers, machinists, mechanics, metal workers and welders, bomb-sight maintenance men, electricians, instrument workers, parachute riggers, propeller specialists, radio operators and mechanics and numerous other categories—from 7½ months to a month or two months is required, depending upon the job to be learned.

Back of the program, of course, must be an intensified output of training planes and combat machines. But if both industry and the Army go "all out" this can and will be done, providing the United States with the most powerful air force in the world.

ENIGMA OF JAP NAVY

In many ways, because of the difference between Oriental and Occidental cultures and customs, Japan is as remote from the United States as any country on the globe. But there are some angles to the situation prevailing in Japan that are not wholly obscure to Americans.

One of these cropped up in dispatches from Tokyo detailing the efforts of the new premier, General Tojo, to form a cabinet. The dispatch gave emphasis to Tojo's selection of Admiral Shimada as his navy minister.

That item means more when digested in connection with another bit of news out of Tokyo—that the emperor has sent for certain naval heads to talk to them about the new cabinet and its policies.

In Japanese affairs the Navy, observers have maintained for years, is less belligerent in attitude than the army. It is the army that endows the military party with an attitude of aggression. The navy men do not favor embroilments that can be avoided. The army men go in for bold adventure, believing that Japanese power is overwhelming, despite the stopping of their China campaign short of its goal.

Tojo, who is a typical Japanese army man, does not want an unwilling navy and when he plunges Japan into war with Russia or with the United States. It is a foregone conclusion that Japan will not jump in unless Tojo is convinced that Nippon's navy men have more confidence than is now credited to them.

WHO'S ILLITERATE?

Are there 16,000,000 illiterates in the United States above the age of ten? The American Association for Adult Education says yes, the Bureau of the Census denies it.

Since the census counts noses and the association doesn't but virtually gallops along on cross-sections, the government would win the argument hands down, except for two things. One is that folk sometimes lie to census-takers rather than admit abysmal ignorance in their families—the other is that the association and the census have different definitions of literacy.

Under the census nobody is illiterate who can write in any language—even his John Hancock would pass him if he couldn't scribble anything else. But the association holds that to be literate it is necessary to fit into an "ordinary literate environment." From its standpoint one would be literate if able to meet both the Army requirement of ability to write a letter and read a newspaper and the Civilian Conservation Corps test of ability to read and write as well as a fourth-grade child. That is the basis on which the association feels there are 16,000,000 illiterates, as contrasted with the 4,300,000 listed in the 1930 census. Workaday literacy can scarcely mean anything less.

Regardless of this four-to-one disparity, there is altogether too much illiteracy among Americans, but a hopeful improvement has been recorded in recent years. It is now definitely known where the heaviest illiteracy is and why it exists. When the 1930 census, for example, put illiteracy among American-born whites at 1½ per cent and among American-born Negroes at 16.3 per cent, lack of school facilities in the South was clearly to blame. And when illiteracy among Negroes in the cities is revealed to be less than one-third of that in the country, this is a tribute to the work of urban schools.

The census put foreign-born illiteracy at more than 9 per cent. The encouraging fact is that it virtually disappears in the next generation, which is part of the minimum 1½ per cent. Intensive work in adult education is imperative now. A generation hence there should be no such problem.

Some folks say the world is going to the dogs, but if dogs are as smart as we think they are they won't accept it.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FIRST WEEKS IN SCHOOL MOST VITAL

Too few youths realize that the first few weeks in high school and college are the most important of the term. In the first place, teachers, being human, are inclined to continue for a term their earlier impressions of a student. If they think of him as earnest and alert then they are inclined to consider him so indefinitely, and by their very attitude may stimulate him to do his best. If, on the other hand, their first impression of him is unfavorable, this impression might linger and count against the student in many ways.

Good Beginning

Then, too, the student who masters the early steps in any subject, has made a good beginning for a successful term; but lagging early might easily let arrears pile up later and bring great discouragement to him.

This is particularly true in such skill subjects as a foreign language, algebra, or geometry. In a foreign language, the first few lessons may seem so easy that the student will assume he won't need to put much effort on it. Then, before he knows it, many basic exercises will have been covered without his mastery of them.

First Lessons Important

In algebra or geometry, the first several lessons are so important that failure to master them might easily spell failure, of the entire course. In either subject, each new unit of work is built on what went before. In algebra, for example, the meaning of the plus and minus signs and their place in addition and subtraction if not learned early, make success in any later step almost impossible.

In geometry, learning how to read an angle is like learning the first letter of the alphabet. I have come across bewildered students in this subject who after several weeks, did not know that in reading an angle, the letter at the "point" of the angle is always named second.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. What is a good way to prevent thumb-sucking in the young infant?

A. Have very long sleeves on his nightgowns which can enclose the hands by a drawstring. Calmly slowly remove the offending thumb when the baby is awake, and put a toy into it. Never jerk it out or scold or punish them. Provide an atmosphere of severity, being very poised yourself, with soft voice, silent radio except for quiet music. Check with your doctor on the proper quantity and quality of the baby's diet. For mothers who are worried over thumb-sucking I have prepared a special bulletin, to be had without cost, by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

The World and the Mud Puddles

PRIORITIES.

There's a new and most important word in America's everyday lexicon. It is "priorities."

If the refrigerator tray springs a leak and you can't buy a new one—it's priorities! If the bride gets iron pans instead of the traditional aluminum ones—it's priorities! If your new car weighs more, shines less, and costs less—it's priorities! Now there's a word that ought to fill a real need in every American's vocabulary. When the wife casts covetous glances on a new stove, you're safe! Just whisper: "priorities." When your bicycle gets a hankering for a new bicycle, you've a perfect answer: it's "priorities."

Priorities! A word for daily use, yet a word for serious thought. It means that American business must give way to preparedness for war. It means that American workmen and American Capitalists must spend all their energies in making war material. The government in Washington has hung out a new sign reading, "Business not as usual until Hitler is defeated."

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SELF-PITY
When I measure loss and gain
From my point of view.
Everything in life seems vain.
Vain is all I do.
Thinking with a narrow mind
Why should I be glum,
Pitying myself I find
Bitter I become.

From my little point of view
Everything seems wrong.
In the times when I am blue
Day and night are long.
Judging life by self alone
Cares which may be meant
Just to test the faith I own
Grimly I resent.

Pitying myself I find
Magnifies my woe.
Neither joy nor peace of mind
Selfish thoughts bestow.
But whenever need for me
And my strength appears,
Then I ask for faith to be Fit to face the years.

NEAT TRICK

Last month a young man walked into a barber shop and offered to buy the barber pole outside the door. The barber agreed to give it to him for five dollars and wrote out a receipt.

The youth placed the pole on his shoulder and walked away. Before he had gone two blocks, a cop nailed him. The young man was evasive in his answers, so the cop brought him to the police station. There, after a few words with the lieutenant, the young man produced his receipt for the pole and was permitted to go.

This time he went four blocks before another cop arrested him. Once again he was brought to the station house and once again he was freed. He then walked seven blocks with the pole on his shoulder before another cop pinched him and brought him in. By this time the lieutenant was frantic. He phoned a request to every cop in town.

"If you see a guy with a barber pole," he roared, "for Pete's sake, let him alone. He's o.k. Don't make any arrests!"

The next morning every barber pole in town had been stolen.

Question: I have been invited to attend a bridal shower in honor of a girl in my sorority. I have never met the shower hostess. Must I send my regrets—and a gift, too?—Marcia.

Answer: By all means, send your regrets if you cannot attend. To ignore the invitation would be rude indeed, as the hostess will prepare for all whom she has invited, and courtesy demands that you let her know that you will not be present. Send a gift, too. If you neglect to do so, your absence may be misconstrued by both the bride-to-be and the other members of your sorority, who may then think that you did not attend because you did not wish to give the bride-to-be a gift.

Question: During the past few years, I have received from boys of the acquaintance birthday, Christmas and graduation gifts. Now I am engaged and am wondering if I should return these gifts which were given through friendship only with no thought of marriage.—L.

Answer: Certainly not! Keep these gifts and with a clear conscience! Anything thus presented to you belongs to you for life, unless coming from "Indian givers." Keep all these little trinkets as mementos of your girlhood. And in the dim, dark future, when, as an old lady, you go foraging through your attic, you will derive a great deal of amusement and pleasure from such dusty reminders of a popular and charming youth.

Dies Quiz Grows Ever More Annoying
Un-American Probe Still Continuing
Communists Basis Of Most Snooping

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Representative Martin Dies' congressional committee on investigation of un-American activities in the United States is more seriously worried relative to Communists' activities than concerning the activities of Nazis or Fascists, or both put together.

The Texas congressman will be recalled as having recently submitted to Attorney General Francis Biddle a list of the names of 1,124 government employees associated, he says, with organizations which seek the overthrow of the very government such employees are drawing pay from. It appears that they're all Communists or sympathizers with 'em, rather than bundists or believers in the Fascist system.

The fact is that the Mussolini regime never has been accused of much propaganda work either in this country or elsewhere throughout the western hemisphere. The Nazis have been, both here and throughout Latin America.

Dies, however, evidently doesn't consider 'em as dangerous as he does the disciples of Moscow's philosophy, and he gives quite a logical reason for being especially skittish of the latter bunch. "It's apparent," he explained, in his report to Attorney General Biddle, "that our policy of all-out aid to Russia makes it very easy for Communists and their sympathizers to pose as ardent patriots"—meaning American patriots.

Biddle may have been edified to note that Dies put the finger on 20 workers in the former's own justice department. He isn't in a position to resent it, though, for he himself asked the Texan for the list the Lone Star investigator delivered to him.

It's Annoying Now
Whatever Biddle may think about it, it's not much of a secret that the Dies quiz has been a considerable nuisance to the Washington administration generally since Russia became involved in the war on the democracies' side and we like (Continued On Page Five)

The National Audubon Society reports that there are 3,575,000 wild birds in the United States today. This does not include the wild or red bird of Union Square.

"Civilian morale demands that the nation's women remain beautiful," a high official declared.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

Is This Nonpartisan?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.

IN recent months there has been a lot of talk from the President—and from those close to the President—about the necessity of forgetting partisan politics in the face of a national emergency. Mr. Roosevelt has solemnly urged this upon the people as a patriotic duty. Nearly all the Administration's journalistic and political spokesmen have echoed the plea.

The soundness of the suggestion is beyond dispute. However, it would be much more impressive if Mr. Roosevelt personally would practice more wholeheartedly what he preaches. His failure to do this, which has been demonstrated in many ways, cannot help but promote distrust and decrease respect. It has become a pretty general editorial custom to assail the Republicans in Congress for their refusal to rise above the party level and support the foreign policy to which the country is committed and which is overwhelmingly approved by a large majority of the people.

AND, with some notable exceptions—such as Senator Austin of Vermont—Representative Wadsworth of New York and a few others—the Republicans deserve to be thus assailed. They have made a distressing and deplorable record. They have been both stupid and ignoble. Nevertheless, it does not lie in the mouth of this Administration, which at no stage of the crisis itself has abandoned partisan politics, to fulminate against them. On the contrary, in its supreme handling of the strike situation, in its pursuit, behind the screen of defense, of its so-called "social gains," in its failure to resist the demands of the (Continued On Page Seven) farm and labor lobbies; in the personnel of the defense organizations; in the recent politically provocative magazine articles signed by Mr. Roosevelt—and in other ways—this Administration has furnished abundant evidence that partisan and political considerations still weigh heavily with it.

WHILE complaining—and with justice—of the Republicans in Congress, at no time have Administration leaders put politics out of their minds and hearts. The defense organization is steeped in New Deal politics—and no candid and informed man will deny it. All of which imparts a considerable flavor of hypocrisy to the White House preachment and makes somewhat sickening its public professions of nonpartisanship. The fact is that even in its policies there is a lack of candor and sincerity about this Administration. An example is to be found in its attitude toward the New York majority election soon to take place.

APPARENTLY, both the President and Mrs. Roosevelt are strongly in favor of Mr. LaGuardia, anxious—or so it seems—to have him re-elected; certainly not for his Tammany opponent. But Mr. Eddie Flynn, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is not anxious to have him re-elected. Mr. Flynn is fighting the mayor with everything he has, and appears quite confident of defeating him—which would be rather in the nature of a calamity. Now, Mr. Flynn is Mr. Roosevelt's chairman, very close to him personally and politically, frequently in White House confidential conference with him. It was in 1940 that Mr. Roosevelt made him chairman, and since then he has distributed through Mr. Flynn the huge Federal patronage—a large part of it in New York City—which formerly was channeled through the genial Mr. Farley.

UNDER such circumstances, the natural, the nonpartisan and the right thing for the President would seem to be either to induce Mr. Flynn to cease his opposition to Mr. LaGuardia or, if he desires to continue to fight, to ask of a professional partisan, he might, at least temporarily, deprive him of the power to use the Federal patronage, which he has had from Mr. Roosevelt, against Mr. LaGuardia. It is as hollow to deny that Mr. Roosevelt has enough influence with Mr. Flynn to dilute his opposition to Mr. LaGuardia, if he desires to dilute it—as it is hollow to deny that despite the Hatch Act, Federal patronage still remains a big factor in politics and easily may be a determining factor in this election.

BUT has Mr. Roosevelt used his undoubted influence with Chairman Flynn, who ought not to have anything at all to do with a municipal campaign, in behalf of Mr. LaGuardia, whose defeat would be a blow to good government everywhere? The answer to that is "No." Or has Mr. Roosevelt taken any step to let the many thousands of Federal jobholders in New York City know that in opposing Mr. LaGuardia they are engaged in a purely partisan attempt to knock out a great mayor who greatly contributed to his own recent reelection? The answer to that also is "No." As the campaign draws to a close, Mr. Flynn is putting on more steam and is more completely recognized as the White House job distributor than before. In the light of these things, this White House bleating about nonpartisanship and the abandonment of politics is pretty hard to stomach without gagging. It does not excuse the Republicans, but it is pretty shameful stuff just the same. And it makes the national unity which we so badly need a good deal more difficult to achieve.

AROUND CITY HALL

Mayor Charles B. Mayne today announced his intention of making the Public Square district a quiet place for approximately 300 sleepers. He made the assertion in police court.

It appears that a young man was arrested at five a. m. Friday for playing a radio. A group of young men who had left their place of employment reportedly talked loud also.

The young man denied the charge of disorderly conduct and said he did not know why he had been arrested and gave cash bond for a hearing. The mayor said the playing of the radio at that hour would constitute such a charge.

Rev. J. E. Caughey, pastor. However, his Honor informed the young man that a hearing would be held next week at a time suitable to both the defendant and the officer.

His Honor then declared that very night various autoists play their radios, foot horns and yell out on the Public Square.

The mayor said he knew of an apartment in a building that fronts on the Public Square.

He said upon one occasion he shouted out his window to a young autoist to quit sounding the auto horn.

The young man replied derogatively, the mayor said. By the time the mayor got into his dressing gown and slippers and downstairs the young man had left.

Indications are that if a good offer were made for the city building, Director of Buildings Joseph D. Alexander would be in favor of selling.

Considerable business is transacted on the second and third floors and there is no elevator.

Aged and unfortunately persons supplied, who desire to pay delinquent taxes must walk up three flights of stairs.

In addition the building is old and a considerable amount of money has been spent on remodeling during a course of ten or more years.

Years ago there was agitation to dispose of the building and acquire a new structure, with the aid of a federal grant, but nothing materialized.

Commissioner of Traffic Thomas Jones today warned autoists not to drive recklessly along city thoroughfares.

He pointed out that in early morning there is usually a heavy fog and leaves are upon the cartways.

One skidding auto may cost several lives, hence Jones' advice to "drive with caution, protect yourself and others."

Churchill Gives His Approval To Roosevelt Stand

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today placed the British government squarely behind President Roosevelt and in complete agreement with his remarks regarding German executions of French hostages.

"These cold blooded executions of innocent people will only serve to recoil on the savages who order them."

"Retribution for these crimes must take their place among the major purposes of this war."

FEED BEES IN FALL TO PREVENT DYSENTERY

If bees are to be taken thru the winter in a strong, healthy condition arrangements must be made in the fall to provide an adequate supply of food for cold, winter days.

The bees in a one-story hive should be fed approximately 10 pounds of a thick sugar syrup during October. If combs of buckwheat or clover honey are available, they may replace sugar syrup as winter feed for the bees. Each colony requires the equivalent of seven full frames of honey.

The quality of the honey stored during the summer and fall generally is not satisfactory for use in winter feeding. When low quality honey is fed to bees during a severe winter, dysentery losses usually are heavy. This makes it desirable to feed a thick sugar syrup as a preventive against dysentery regardless of the amount of honey in the hive.

Feeding is usually begun after the first killing frost, but not until after brood rearing has stopped. Most beekeepers feed their bees during October. The usual practice is to mix 2-1/2 parts by volume of white granulated sugar with 1 part of water. One-half teaspoon of cream of tartar may be added to each 10 pounds of sugar used in the syrup. This mixture is heated, but not boiled, until all the sugar is dissolved. It is not placed before the bees until after it has had a chance to cool.

GOOD POULTRY EQUIPMENT SAVES MUCH HARD LABOR

Carrying water is always a big job for poultrymen and can be an irritating one in freezing weather. One hundred fowls in production will consume five gallons of water daily. That means 400 pounds of water to carry, often up weystairs. In a year's time that figures to about seven tons of water per hundred birds. That's a lot of carrying as most poultrymen know. And in winter it means fighting ice, therefore, some poultrymen appreciate the blessing of running water. Automatic waterers are preferred but large fountains holding as much as ten gallons of water are a good second choice. Various types of heating devices are available and help solve the frozen water problem. Wire covered frames or cut-down barrels placed under the fountains help keep the water from freezing. Pans with drain pipes attached have been used successfully.

Homemade time clocks, or commercial devices, for turning on electric lights are used by many poultrymen. Non-pick nests are achieved by placing the perches out 18 inches from the front of the nest. Convenient feed rooms, chutes, and unloading facilities save hours of strain handling feed, litter, and other equipment.

YIELD IMPORTANT IN GROWING VEGETABLES

Vegetable crops, from asparagus to tomatoes, usually bring the greatest cash returns per acre and are best in quality when the yields per acre are large. Records, particularly as summarized for tomato growers, show that efficient cultural practices are: early planting in a well prepared soil, deep setting and careful handling of plants to give them a good start, manure or clover sod at least once in the rotation, 600 to 1,000 pounds of a complete fertilizer per acre, and shallow cultivation to prevent weed growth. These studies which have been conducted compare the conditions and practices used in producing low, medium, and high yields.

FARMERS FIND ANSWER TO SOIL EROSION LOSS

Erosion has long been a problem on some Lawrence County farms. By observing how it takes place, farmers have in many cases found the answer to this problem.

Years ago, it was known that when a slope was plowed at one time deep gullies often resulted, and that the longer the slopes, the more serious the erosion problem. In some instances, fences were washed away and even larger objects were lost by run-off water. It was noticed that as this run-off water crossed fields that were nearly level, its cutting power was stopped and in many cases it dropped a part of its load of soil. Thus, by reducing the speed of run-off water soil washing could be greatly diminished. The first steps were to divide long slopes in half. When the upper half of the slope was plowed, the lower half was left in sod or some crop that tied the soil down. The results were gratifying and further divisions were made until six, eight, or even more fields running across the slope of the hill was not an unusual sight. As the strips became narrower, the evidence of soil washing became less. Even the water moved across a narrow strip of plowed and cultivated land, the next strip reduces its force, because that next strip would be planted to a close growing crop such as hay or winter grain. No two adjacent strips would be plowed at the same season of the year.

Contour strips, which follow a level line around the hill, was the next step in erosion control. On such strips the rows never pull up or down hill, and as a result, depressions in the soil made by tillage tools are level and act as reservoirs to hold water. If these tillage marks were made up and down the slope, they would act as drainage channels which would hurry the water's movement off the land and result in serious soil losses.

The application of brakes to run off water involves the use of contour strips, good rotations, pasture, long time hay, and reforestation. On some farms the use of all these practices are necessary while on others the first and second may be omitted. The location and improvement of pasture is important. Some erosion problems can be overcome by locating pastures on the fields that wash severely when plowed. Long time hay such as alfalfa and timothy mixtures usually means less plowing. Reforestation is another means of reducing soil washing on out-of-the-way areas on the farm.

YELLOW SQUASH GIVES VITAMIN "A" AT LOW COST

Squash belong to the class of yellow vegetables—those highly valued for their vitamin A content. Because there is an abundance of good squash this year, homemakers will find frequent servings of this vegetable an excellent addition to the family diet, says Miss Bonetta Jordon, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County.

The best squash are a bright clear color and are neither the smallest nor the largest on the pile. The larger squash may be coarse and lack sweetness and the smaller ones may be immature with little flavor.

The yellow color of squash is one reason for its dietary success, it is a good source of vitamin A. Besides vitamin A, squash can be counted upon to furnish some of the vitamin B requirements.

Although squash contain no large proportion of calcium, phosphorus, or iron, it may become a relatively important source of these essential minerals if it appears frequently on the family dinner table. Squash may be boiled, mashed, and seasoned much like sweet potatoes. Some folks prefer to bake it. The larger squash may be cut in smaller pieces, while the smaller ones need only be cut into halves. Inverting the pieces, after the seeds have been removed, on a baking tin keeps the flesh from becoming too dry during the baking period. Leftover squash offers many possibilities in the cookery field. It makes good "pumpkin" pie. A half pound of a whole cup of mashed squash added to muffin or cornbread batter makes a delicious baked product. A different way to use the leftover vegetable is in squash cheese soufflé.

Here is the recipe Miss Gordon suggests: 2 cups mashed squash; 3-4 cup milk and 2 tablespoons melted butter, or 3-4 cup thin cream; 1-2 cup grated cheese; 2 eggs; salt and pepper. Mix squash with milk or cream, seasonings, cheese, and beaten egg yolks. Fold in egg white, beaten until stiff. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit, 40 minutes or until firm. Set baking dish in a pan of hot water.

FRUITS ARE BEST NOW

Mother Nature gave us our sweet tooth to make sure we would eat plenty of fruit to satisfy our need for natural sugars. Man has erroneously served too far at times and has grown to depend on candy and other concentrated sweets. Let's eat more raw and canned fruits for better health and well being. Then if we still crave sweets, a little candy may be the answer. Use fruit at all meals, have a basket of it in the dining room and the living room, and urge your family to eat it. Fruits are good health insurance.

"Marriage Of Figaro" To Open Season Here

Metropolitan Concert Guild To Offer Attractive Series This Year

Along with football, autumn forest tints and the approach of blustery day, the music lovers look with longing eyes at the attractive things to come in the musical world. This season the Metropolitan Concert Guild has gone beyond any of its previous years in the scope of its programs and the four members scheduled make an attractive combination.

The season opens on Monday night, November 10, with the presentation of Mozart's grand opera "The Marriage of Figaro" but contrary to the usual method of presentation this will be done in English and in modern dress. Tried out as an experiment the company presenting the opera has found itself booked up into 1943 and New Castle is fortunate to get the opera here.

The second presentation will be the Curtis String Quartet with Abram Chasins pianist, another all star program. The Curtis artists rank high in quality and Chasins is one of the bright stars of the musical firmament just now. This concert will be on Tuesday, December 11.

The third presentation is not definitely set as yet but tentatively it will be Jacques Cartier who is a one man dramatic cast. This attraction is not guaranteed as yet but if it is not presented, another of equal worth will be.

The final concert, on April 14, 1942 will see John Brownlee, a Metropolitan Opera Company baritone, with Iso Brisseli, a violinist. This concert will be a fitting climax to a brilliant series.

Due to some subscribers leaving for army service and other reasons, there are a few season tickets available. These can be picked up by getting in contact with President William Wilson Campbell; Vice President, Mrs. Harry L. Gormley; Secretary, Mrs. Lyle C. Hughes; Treasurer, Miss Lila V. Henshaw, or any of the directors or talent committee.

Medical Journal Assails Vitamin 'Gold Rush Of '41'

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The journal of the American Medical association today struck out strongly in an editorial against what it termed "The Vitamin Gold Rush of 1941" which, the editorial declared, makes the California gold rush of 1849 "pale by comparison."

"There are lush profits in the vitamin business," the editorial stated. "Enterprising manufacturers of all kinds are climbing on the wagon and taking to the trail." "Claims made for various 'shotgun vitamins,'" the editorial went on, run contrary to all medical knowledge. Vitamin concentrates alone cannot, as the editorial declared some manufacturers maintain, add luster to the eyes, whiteness to the teeth, prevent sterility, promote mental and physical vigor, or make one "active, gay, beautiful or charming, able to live without a 'let-up' or 'let-down.'"

As a matter of fact, the editorial continued, all of the substances required by normal adult human beings can be supplied under ordinary conditions by a balanced diet.

Two Fatalities In Butler County

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 25.—Butler county's highway toll climbed to 23 for the year, two under last year, when Mary A. Beck, 49, of this city, and Roy Lefever, 14, of Renfrew were killed in highway accidents in the Butler district in the past 24 hours.

Beck was killed and Frank C. Huff, 17, of Butler, injured severely when their car crashed head-on with a truck. The injured car was attempting to pass another machine on the East Butler highway. Beck died of a broken neck. Both cars were demolished. Lefever was killed and five others were injured when a car driven by Raymond B. Douth, 18, of Butler, sideswiped a telephone pole at Brownsdale. The car overturned and was demolished. The injured are William Neil, 15, Harry Neil, 18, Vite Marabito, 17, and Doyle Baldauf, 20, all of Renfrew and Douth.

Witches, goblins and all descriptions of masked figures gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Belz, Thursday evening. Much merriment was provided in guessing identities and when the figures unmasked they proved to be only school friends of their son, David, who is a member of the fifth grade of the Wayne township schools.

Games and contests held the attention of the young folks throughout the evening with prizes being awarded to Lois Jean Weingartner and Verna Crawford.

A fitting conclusion to the delightful evening was a delicious lunch which was served by Mrs. Belz aided by Norma Jean Guy, Betty Newton, Betty Anderson and Mary Catherine Coleman to forty guests. Halloween colors of orange and black were cleverly carried out in the lunch.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

There are 600,000 sufferers from diabetes in the United States. The disease kills an average of 81 Pennsylvanians every day. The state's diabetic death rate in 1928 was 20 per 100,000 persons. In 1938 this death rate jumped to more than 30.

What caused a 50 per cent increase? More accurate diagnoses of this disease for one thing.

Laboratory tests and methods were much improved since 1928. Making possible more frequent reports of diabetes deaths.

Formerly many diabetic deaths were attributed to other causes. There are more elderly persons living today, hence more diabetes.

Diet and insulin are medical science's two great diabetic weapons.

With proper care, a diabetic may readily live a normal existence.

NEW CASTLE HIGH DEFEATS CAMPBELL 13 TO 6

STEWART-YOUNG TALLY TOUCHDOWNS

New Castle High "Red Hurricane" Extended By Campbell Eleven; Locals Hang Up Eighth Straight Of Season Before 8,000 Fans In Drizzle Of Rain, Friday Night; Fortner Fine Backfield Man; Gunn-Scarazzo Star.

EXTENDED to the limit of their ability, a determined New Castle High football team fought with every ounce of strength that they had and overcame a stubborn and powerful Campbell Memorial High eleven at Taggart stadium last night in a drizzle of rain, before a crowd of some 8,000 fans.

It was the eighth straight win of the season for the Red Hurricane, coached by Coach Lee, who had won out of the last 21 games played. Campbell sent a team here last night that no one need be ashamed of. They fought New Castle with everything that they had in their possession, but were just not the team that New Castle turned out to be after a shaky start.

Scoreless First Period

Nothing of particular interest happened in the first period. New Castle kicked off to Campbell, and they punted back to New Castle, and finally Campbell intercepted a Lee-thrown pass and from their own 37-yard line the Ohioans drove down to the New Castle 18-yard line as the first session ended.

"Campbell in the first period kicked off three first downs to two for the locals. Harold Fortner, the big 200-pound colored halfback of the visiting team, did most of the ball juggling. Two nice passes, Fortner to Macevko, accounted for two first downs.

Fortner-Stewart Tally

Campbell scored its lone touchdown a minute or so after the second period began, with the Ohioans using four plays, and with Fortner carrying the ball on three of them, the last time he lugged it over from the four-yard line, to put the visitors out in front. Barallaire tried the extra point by placement, but it was wide of the bar. Campbell 6, New Castle 0.

Pandemonium broke loose in the Campbell stands as the Ohioans took the lead over the mighty "Red Hurricane". This had not been looked for. Campbell had hopes of scoring on the locals, but they did not figure to lead so early in the ball game.

The Campbell touchdown came as an electric shock to the New Castle boys, because they certainly snapped out of it taking the kickoff from Barallaire on their own 20-yard line and never losing possession of the ball as they drove straight down the field 80 yards.

never giving up the ball and registering four first downs in a row, with Bobby Stewart lugging the ball over from the 13-yard line on a run through the center of the Campbell line.

Stewart tried the extra point by placement, and it sailed right smack through the center of the goal posts for the big extra to put New Castle out in front, 7 to 6.

Locals Hold Lead

Gunn kicked off to Campbell following the New Castle touchdown, and the Ohioans worked the ball to the 47-yard line, where Lee intercepted a pass thrown by Barallaire, only to have a 15-yard penalty called on New Castle, giving the Ohioans a first down on the New Castle 32-yard line.

Campbell, after Macevko had lost 14 yards on an end run, gave up the ball on downs to New Castle on the New Castle 44. Lee passed to Parou and the first half ended. New Castle 7, Campbell 6.

No Score Third Period

Neither team threatened in the third period. Campbell kicked off to New Castle and Lee, after four plays, punted to the Ohioans, back on their 5-yard line, a beautiful boot.

Campbell, with Macevko carrying the ball, picked up a first down on the Campbell 16, and then a Campbell penalty put them in the hole and they were forced to kick to Lee. Lee then passed to Parou for a first down on the Campbell 30-yard line. Lee tried another pass and it was intercepted by Markovitch on the Campbell 22. Three plays failed to make the necessary yardage and Barallaire punted to New Castle on the New Castle 47, out of bounds.

Lee raced for first down on the Campbell 36 on a nice cut-back play; Stewart made another first down on the Ohio 25-yard line. Doster picked up three, making it New Castle in possession of the ball on the Campbell 22 as the third period ended.

Young Scores On Pass

New Castle smelled a touchdown coming as the fourth period began. New Castle had the ball on the Campbell 22 and here is how the sons of Pa New made that game-clinching touchdown—Stewart picked up two yards, New Castle drew a five-yard for off-side, Lee passed to Young who had replaced Parou at right end for New Castle for a first down on the Campbell 8-yard line.

Stewart failed to gain an inch. Stewart picked up three to the Campbell five-yard line. Lee was tossed for a two-yard loss. Lee then rifled a pass to Young and the colored right end snared it and was just barely inside the end zone when he did catch it. Stewart tried the extra point but it was wide of the goal posts. New Castle 13, Campbell 6.

Lead Is Protected

New Castle for the remainder of the game following the touchdown by Young seemed merely content to hold its lead. Gunn kicked off to Campbell on the Ohio 18 as the play was resumed following Young's touchdown. Gunn a few minutes later recovered a Campbell fumble on the Campbell 36-yard line and there was just five minutes of the game left to play.

Lee fumbled and Fortner recovered for Campbell on their own 31-yard line. Three Campbell plays failed to gain much and Barallaire kicked to New Castle on the Campbell 47 a poor kick. Stewart ripped off a first down running the ball to the Campbell 37. Stewart dashed for another first down to the Campbell 27. There was just a minute or so left to play.

Line Play Is Fine

Stewart carried the ball again for no gain. Doster made a yard. Lee with 25 seconds left to play, and on third down passed and it was intercepted by Fortner, who was the whole Campbell backfield, and he just about got away for a touchdown, but was hauled down by Doster.

ter after dashing from his own 30 to the New Castle 26. Fortner failed to gain. Campbell drew a five-yard penalty for too many time outs and there was just time for Fortner to try a pass that failed and the game was over.

There was fine line play on both sides last night. New Castle's two standout stars being Jesse Gunn and Norm Scarazzo, both boys playing in the Campbell backfield quite a bit. Ciolli and Dellasandra did a nice bit of line playing for the losers.

New Castle had the better of it in the first down department, 14 to 8.

The next game for New Castle will be next Friday night at Scott High North Braddock. This will be the final Class AA game for the locals.

Bands Make Hit At Grid Battle

Miss Giacotti And Croton Girls Make Hit With Baton Twirling

Not only did the New Castle High football fans see a honey-of-a-game last night, but they saw a New Castle High band display that was really neat to see. Campbell sent a small but very fine band here for the game. The drizzle of rain did not bother the bands one bit.

Campbell's band had the field for the first part of the intermission and played some lively tunes and then marched off. The New Castle band then took the field and formed a big battleship with the Croton school dressed in shiny white costumes taking the center of the field and doing some fancy baton twirling led by their teacher, Miss Christina Giacotti. New Castle's lovely drum majorette.

The baton twirling act got a big hand from the some 8,000 fans who were at the game. It was a memorable night, for both the band and the team.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Fred Hutchinson, Detroit Tigers' pitcher and winner last summer of valuable player award with Buffalo, has signed for a four-year hitch in the Navy. He will work in the Navy's physical education program.

Carnegie Tech barriers won their third straight meet of the season Friday when they outscored Slippery Rock Teachers 32-23, on a 4 1/2 mile course in Schenley park. Pittsburgh, Nick Teresi, Tartan, crossed the finish line first in 26 minutes and 15 seconds.

Sammy Secrett, former amateur who fought here many times, will be given a testimonial dinner by fans Sunday night at Cuddy. Among those who will attend will be former State Boxing Commissioner, Dr. W. D. McClelland, Promoter Jake Mintz and former A. E. F. Middleweight champion Charles Swan.

Baylor, Yale, Texas Christian, Harvard, N. Y. U., Mississippi and Rice are all underdogs with a good chance to win in today's college football encounters. . . . Frank Shik-wich, Georgia ace who has been playing with a broken jaw, is called the "man of the week in sports". . . . Leading eastern teams—Ford-ham, Navy, Penn, Temple and Army.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

What's new in sports today?

Sam Crocetti has retired from leathering lane. The former local featherweight, in a letter to one of his closest friends, Frankie Landis, the ex-south side whirlwind, writes that he is now affiliated with the Amsterdam (N. Y.) Recreation commission. "After more than 10 years of ring campaigning, it's time to call it a day," the popular athlete writes. . . .

Crocetti came here about 10 years ago and tutored by the late Jimmy Dime. Sam fought the top gladiators in his division. When Dime became critically ill in January, 1936, Crocetti shifted to Amsterdam, where he continued his mitt slinging career until late September when the deemed it wise to quit the game. Crocetti sends greetings to his host of local friends. . . .

Al Krucz, who teaches the free baseball school here during the summer months, is doing an excellent job of helping coach Penn university's line. Krucz, who graced the 1926 All-American team, has —rate well up among the nation's standouts. . . . Chicago Bears and New York Giants dominate their respective divisions as the national professional football race enters stretch.

Al Leasure, brother of Lester, known as the "Canco Kid," because he is employed at the American Can company. Only a short time ago he defeated the well-known Chet Williams, national A. A. U. runner-up for the 160-pound title. They milled in Youngstown, and are destined for a return fight here Wednesday night.

Russell Baxter, 155-pounds, known as the "Shenango Kid," because he is an employee of the Shenango Pottery company. Russell got his high school diploma last June. During his career in the amateurs he has caused a sensation. He has been knocked out once or twice, but in the whole is the cream of the "middles" here. Russell will box Johnny Watson, a rugged scrapper from Brownsville, Wednesday night.

Frankie Moran, the "kayo king" of all local amateurs. He is a lightweight. Since his debut he has fought consistently and while he has been defeated now and then, in the main he has proved the thunderbolt of Arena fighters. When he steps into a ring fans expect and usually see dynamite unleashed from either a right or left hand. He meets the good Jackie Burke of Vestaburg, Wednesday.

The Jefferson A. C. will present five other bouts and one of them will contain heavyweights. Usually a heavyweight fight is either good, or slow. However, fans like to see the 200-pounders sprawled, and indications are that either George Stenko, of Erie, or Johnny Joyce, of Youngstown, will be stretched upon the floorboards of the ring when they toss punches Wednesday.

Benny Newkirk, a local lad who is now in his public infancy, but who likes the game, will take on a chap with a mean sounding name—Harry Butcher, of Erie, at 140. Danny Coma, a coal miner from Grove City, will take on Tommy Komolo, of Brownsville, at 112. Roy Roboleski, of Erie, will tackle the fast Luther Harrison, of Vesta-burg, at 130, and one more bout remains to be arranged.

The fights have been changed to Wednesday night because of circumstances. The Jefferson A. C. could not control the club formerly staged shows on Monday night, but the building was rented out to others for that night, and the same rule prevailed when the Jefferson A. C. shifted to Tuesday night. Now the boys will doll themselves physically for grueling battles on Wednesday nights.

WARREN AHEAD, 7-2

A last quarter touchdown netted Warren, O., a 7-2 victory over stubborn Erie Academy eleven Friday night in Warren. The Erie eleven scored its safety in the opening period.

HEAVYWEIGHTS ON WEDNESDAY'S CARD

There was a time once when New Castle was one of the most prominent cities on the professional pugilistic map, and indications are that the city now enjoys a similar reputation on the amateur fistic horizon. New Castle knights of the horse-hair padded gloves are eagerly sought in other circles because three of them are capable of giving a champion a real fight.

They are: Lester Leasure, middleweight, known as the "Canco Kid," because he is employed at the American Can company. Only a short time ago he defeated the well-known Chet Williams, national A. A. Shenango-Union Play To 6-6 Tie In Movie Finish

Shenango Township Deadlocks Count In Final 17 Seconds Of Play

CLASS B BATTLE IS THRILL-PACKED

Hollywood's ingenious scenario writers couldn't fabricate a more heart-throbbing ending than the one unfolded by the gridiron warriors of Shenango Township and Union Township high Friday afternoon at Union field.

The annual Lawrence county class B struggle, witnessed by more than 1,000 pop-eyed fans, ended in a 6-6 tie.

Succinctly, here's how it happened: Just like in the movies, the cross-town rivals battled evenly for more than three quarters. Then the action started! Shenango paraded to the Union 38. The gallant Scotland Lancers buckled their belts and held. Jaskolka first rammed through to the 41 and then flipped a pass. Interference was called by the officials and Union took the ball on the mid-stripe.

Union Scores

Jaskolka faded back and pegged a rifle-like pass to Dudzensky, who entered the game earlier. The end was downed on Shenango's 30. After a five-yard Union penalty, Jaskolka bowled over center to the 26. After two more line backs fizzled, Wait Jaskolka raced back to the Shenango 40 and fired a long aerial. Moran, Shenango half, almost got his hands on the ball as it sailed into the waiting arms of Dudzensky, who was stationed in the end zone, thus scoring Union's only touchdown.

Then pandemonium broke loose. Many Union followers converged onto the field. After clearing the field the officials signalled for the point conversion try. Paul Dougherty attempted to go through the center of the line for the seventh marker, but was nailed.

With less than five minutes left the game seemed in the bag for the Unionites. Jaskolka's kickoff went out of bounds. Shenango automatically gaining possession on the 40. Here the Wildcats of Shenango fought their battle with time.

Semansky Moran and Stitt each took a cut at the line and reached Union's 39. Stitt's left end run netted 7 yards. Semansky tore through the line and penetrated to the 34 for a first down. The time left: less than two minutes.

Long Pass Clicks

Mike Stoltica was stopped cold as he tried off-tackle. Stitt then tossed a short pass to Stoltica on the Union 30. Moran dashed around left, but was tossed for a two-yard loss. Time left: 17 seconds. On fourth down Semansky took the ball, handed it to Stoltica on what appeared to be a reverse. Stoltica, however, scampered to the 42-yard stripe and unfurled a long pass. Fruitt, left end, caught the ball a few yards from the goal line and went over. Semansky's plunge for the extra point was no good. That's all there was to it.

During the first half Shenango missed two scoring chances, once penetrating the Union 9, but Union held. On the last play of the first half Stoltica fired a long pass from near the mid-stripe. Fruitt caught the ball and was nailed on the Union 5 as the whistle sounded.

In the third Shenango started another march toward pay dirt, stopping on Union's 38. Then the fighting Scotland Lane blue and white clad eleven, as gallant a group as ever flaunted the school's colors, started a march after being summoned for more than three quarters.

Wait Jaskolka, Union's hefty full-back, pitched as good as Sid Luckman, connecting six out of eight time. In addition, he played the best defensive game of his life. Annarella, at center, proved an exceptionally alert backer-upper. The entire work of Shenango's backfield glittered. Semansky's plunges and ball handling left little to be desired. Stoltica's kicking left the gallery stunned. One of his boots traveled 72 yards over the Union line. Pete Moran was as elusive as a scared rabbit. Fruitt and Staph played spectacularly up front.

Shenango piled up 10 first downs, as compared to three for Union. Shenango completed four out of seven aerials, compared to six out of eight for Union.

The line-up:

Jones Will Bolt If Guffey Runs

By LEONARD APPELBAUM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 25.—Walter A. Jones, prominent Democrat and chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission, today said he would bolt the party if U. S. Sen. Joseph P. Guffey is its gubernatorial nominee and support U. S. Sen. James J. Davis, whom he predicted would win the G. O. P. nomination.

"If it comes to a choice between Guffey and Davis, I will support Davis," said Jones in an interview.

The wealthy Pittsburgher, an intimate friend of President Roosevelt, unsuccessfully opposed Guffey for senator in the April 1939 Democratic primary, being backed in his campaign by David L. Lawrence, Guffey's victory forced Lawrence out as Democratic state chairman and he accepted the post of national committeeman instead. Since then Lawrence, still a powerful figure in state politics, has been at odds with Guffey.

JOINT CONFERENCE

Members of city council met with the county commissioners on Friday morning concerning some land lying along the outskirts of the city partly in and out of the city's lines. The question of taking the land over has arisen, and the conference was for the purpose of getting the details worked out.

One of the criticisms of the state's taking over land in the various counties of the state is the fact that the counties lose taxes through the deals. The state does pay a trifle for lands taken, and a check for $75.33 has come in for state-owned land in this county.

This represents one cent per acre the state pays, which means that the state owns 7,533 acres of land in Lawrence.

In addition, the state pays two cents per acre to the townships for the same land, making a total of three cents per acre the state pays back.
